Description

Please is possible redirect user to historic workflow task, when he click on task URL in email that is already solved?

Now when user click on task url that is already solved is only showed information about finished or non existing task:

For basic users is this really hard to understand.

For redirection will be probably required some special permission for read historic tasks. We will added this permission to all users that is in approving process.

Thank you :)

Implmented. I use more sophisticated solution on the end. If ID of a task doesn't exists, I try to find task in history of the WF. If exists then I try to create task looks like original. This task is returns as normal WF task. It means no redirection is needed now.

- Detail of a historic tasks use same components on the FE. It means connected role-request or concept of role-request is show on task detail too.
- On detail of the historic task is show specific information about time resolving that task and who it resolved.

- Link to the whole process is show on the historic task detail.
- DTO for history of workflow tasks was redesigned. Since this version is DTO WorkflowHistoricTaskInstanceDto extended by workflow task DTO WorkflowTaskInstanceDto. Some of a fields in WorkflowHistoricTaskInstanceDto were removed or renamed (candicateUsers, taskVariables)!
- Workflow history task service was changed. Interface is same, but implementation of the toResource method was changed.
- Detail of workflow process was redesigned too (UX improvments). New actions for show detail of a tasks (historic and unresolved) were added on this detail too.

I did test and code review, this feature is awesome, when some link is in email, then detail is shown always.

I found some issues:
- historic task detail doesn't work (entity not found exception), when related entity is already deleted - e.g. when role concept is deleted (or whole identity).

- TaskHistoricInfo - white page is shown, when system information is shown
