I've added button to identity detail and project form projection too.

User type

User type defines, which form will be used for user detail and editation.

Inactive

Inactive identity cannot log in. It's controlled by the state.

I did review and test. Works nice, thanks for this usefull feature.

After using it several times, I'm worried that the location of the button is not ideal (it is too close to the save button). Maybe placing next to the checkbox inactive could be better. But this is a question for product presentation.
